In 1941, when Anna was 17 years old, the Nazis invaded Russia. Anna's family was forced to flee their home, and they spent the next few years living in refugee camps.

After the war, Anna returned to Russia and finished school. She then got a job as a teacher. But she still dreamed of a better life, and in 1957, she decided to immigrate to America.

Anna's journey to America was long and difficult. She had to leave behind her family and friends, and she had to learn a new language and culture. But she was determined to make a better life for herself, and she never gave up.

Anna eventually settled in New York City, where she worked as a teacher and a social worker. She also met and married her husband, Morris. Together, they raised a family and built a good life for themselves.

Anna Roitman's story is an inspiration to all who have ever dreamed of a better life. Her journey was long and difficult, but she never gave up on her dreams. She is a testament to the power of resilience, hope, and love.
